DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

In 2013, CEU was named among the world's top 50 universities for political science and international relations in the Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) rankings, and number 12 in Europe. The political science program was also ranked in the top ("excellence") group of European universities in the survey by the German Center for Higher Education Development (CHE). The department focuses on several areas of political science with a special emphasis on comparative politics. The curriculum examines questions of political theory, democratization, constitutional politics, political economy, mass media, electoral behavior, party politics, research methodology, and European politics.

CAREER PATH

Graduates of the department pursue doctoral and postdoctoral studies at leading European and U.S. universities and find employment in politics, political analysis, the news media, civil service, international NGOs, research organizations, business, and government.

WALEED MEBANE

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: UNITED STATES

"One of the major things that attracted me to CEU was the fact that departments are open to students whose undergraduate degrees are outside of the social sciences and humanities fields —this was unique to CEU based on other places I considered. I also noted that the Department of Political Science was given five stars in the German newspaper Die Zeit's ranking of European university disciplines and that was something that impressed me. I like that Budapest, although a vibrant and politically and culturally important city, is kind of off the beaten path and provides the opportunity to meet people from diverse places with broad perspectives."

MASTER OF ARTS IN POLITICAL SCIENCE (ONE YEAR)

The program offers a comprehensive and interdisciplinary curriculum in contemporary political issues and research methods and places emphasis on comparative politics and political economy, normative political theory, and the study of democracy. Wide-ranging courses in these fields of the discipline are offered.

MASTER OF ARTS IN POLITICAL SCIENCE (TWO YEARS)

The program is designed for students with a three-year bachelor's degree in political science or a related discipline. Students have the opportunity to explore comparative politics, political economy, political communication, and political theory.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

The doctoral program is operated by the Doctoral School of Political Science, Public Policy, and International Relations. The program prepares students for careers in research and university-level teaching. Research areas include comparative politics, political theory, political economy, international relations, and public policy.
